I was very pleased to have had an opportunity of being present at a performance given by the Parsee

Ripon Theatrical Company last night. The ability of the actors and actresses was most surprising. The style of the play performed was of the Gilbert and Sullivan type with perhaps a little more seriousness in the story. The scenery and dresses were admirable and the whole performance most entertaining the dialogue and songs all being in pure Urdu.

Mr. M N. Surveyor the proprietor is to be congratulated on the excellence of his company and as the principal actor himself gives a very good display of real comedy I wish him every success.

On the 1st instant, the Parsee Ripon Theatrical Company, opened at the Parsee Theatre with their well-known performance "Bagh-e-Bedad." The play was capially performed especially on its comical side.

Mr. M. N. Surveyor, the proprietor, may justly pride himself on the fact that this performance has always drawn bumper houses, whether it is performed at Calcutta, Rangoon, Bombay or Karachi. We believe this is the first time, that Bengali actresses have displayed their histrionic feats before the Karachi public.

Parsee Ripon Theatrical Co.,

SEASON IN MADRAS.

BY OUR THEATRE CRITIC.

Mr. M. N. Surveyor must have felt gratified when his talented Company received from a packed house on Wednesday night as warm and demonstrative a welcome as has hitherto been accorded any theatrical artistes in the city. It was an evidence that the greater part of the audience had enjoyed admirably staged dramas which Mr. Surveyor produced in Madras with such signal success some four years ago.

Opening with Fouji Afsar (Othello) which has already been described in the columns, Mr. Surveyor may, because of his own reception and that accorded to Khambatta and Miss Shooshila, look forward to a successful season in Madras. As I said in my previous review, the company, collectively, is a capable one, and assisting him, Mr. Surveyor has some talented actors and actresses, whose initial work here at once secured for them much favour.

On Saturday the Company presented "Bagla Bhagat," a dramatic combination of selected scenes from Shakespeare's masterpieces "Othello," "Merchant of Venice," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and "Two Gentlemen of Verona," skilfully adapted to form one plot. In the first act—in fact, throughout the play—Mr. Surveyor was seen in a part, (Chopat, a scamp) capially suited to a display of his versatility. He impersonated a play-actor (Private Secretary to "Fatehnavaz") who by his very brightness and cleverness in repartee ingratiated himself with a company much above his station and allowed him to be introduced to a class, which, under ordinary circumstances, would have treated him with scant consideration or toleration. Such a character could easily be overstrained and made to appear absurd and impossible, but Mr. Surveyor did not once descend to the farcial or purely burlesque, while at the same time he kept the audience in a simmering good humour. From the time when he was appointed Private Secretary to Fatehnavaz to that when he is married to Ashrafi, he threw appreciable light shades upon the episodes through which the main story carried the audience. A capital piece of work was that in which he was seen extorting fifty Mohurs out of Issac, Mahroo's father, promising to release Mahroo from the hands of the Police.

Miss Shooshila was seen at her best as Ashrafi. She is an actress of more than ordinary naturalness and forcefulness, besides which she is the possessor of a sweet voice. On Saturday her singing was much appreciated and she was repeatedly encored.

"JAM-E-JAMSHED,"

A magnificent programme was provided for the large audience which filled the Tower Hall, Maradana, last night, when the Parsee Ripon Theatrical Company of Bombay staged for the first time in Colombo, the play entitled "Jam-e-Jamshed." The house was literally packed, and late arrivals had to be satisfied with standing accommodation. The story was a very interesting one, and every item was received well. Messrs. M. N. Surveyor, the proprietor, Herjiwan and Mustakim showed that they were no mean actors, Miss Shooshila as Prince Laka, and Chatrabodi as Princess Rana, played their parts to perfection and were well received. Casim Aly, a very popular actor in India, was another who did his part well. The play was altogether well staged, the singing and the acting being high class. The dresses were gorgeous and the scenery excellent It was about one o'clock in the morning when the curtain was finally rung down, all present voting the play a thorough success.

The Parsee Ripon Theatrical Co.,

SUCCESSFUL OPENING NIGHT.

Previous Parsee Theatres have left such an excellent reputation behind them, that whenever a new Company arrives, Sinhalese Theatre-goers flock to their performances in hundreds and give them a most enthusiastic reception Last night proved no exception to the rule. when the Ripon Parsee Theatrical Company of Bombay, who have just come into our midst, had a most successful opening night at the new spacious Tower Hall at Maradana "Jam-e-Jamshed" which was staged, is a play which abounds with dramatic incidents, and the principal actors rose up to the occasion and rendered their various parts splendidly. The play was extremely well received and the large audience expressed its high appreciation by loud and well sustained applause.

There can be no doubt that the Parsee Ripon Theatrical Company is above the average Eastern Theatrical troupe that periodically visits Colombo, and if the reception they received yesterday is an augury of what they will experience during the rest of their short season of eight nights, they are indeed to be congratulated.

We have no doubt that an equally large and an equally appreciative gathering will assemble to-night at their second performance.

"ALADIN OR THE WONDERFUL LAMP"

The Parsee Ripon Theatrical Company of Bombay will stage to-night at 9 P.M. at the Tower Hall, Mardana the well-known and highly appreciated drama. "Aladin or the Wonderful Lamp." The management has spent a great deal of money in procuring the scenery for this play. The scenery has been specially made and is new. Pains have been taken to insure a faithful reproduction of the original scenes. Besides these important arrangements, new Chinese costumes, new songs and dances will be provided, and there are thus a great many things worth going a long way to see. "Aladin or the Wonderful Lamp" is a drama which requires no introduction to the reader. There should be a very large attendance at tonight's performance.

The Parsee Ripon Theatrical Co.

This Company opened a short season in Madras on Saturday with Bagh-e-Bedad at the Victoria Hall. There was a fairly large audience, and the performance from start to finish was good. The part of Salim was borne by Girdhar, and his acting left nothing to be desired. The role of "Tara", the heroine was well sustained by Narayan, while Wadilal was very popular in his presentation of the part of "Kotwal," the villain of piece. Very little was asked of Miss Shooshila as "Goolbadan," but she did that little creditably. The comic element in the play was supplied by Mr. Surveyor, the proprietor of the Company, who proved himself to be a perfect embodiment of mirth. Yesterday, the Company gave a matinee performance, the piece staged being "Dilfareb," an adaptation of Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra. Towards the close of the performance, the Zamindar of Bhadrachellum, as a mark of appreciation, presented Gold Medals to Mr. Surveyor and Miss Shooshila the latter of whom sustained the part of "Cleopatra."

Parsee Theatrical Company.

The Parsee Ripon Theatrical Company of Bombay opened their season here last night, at the Theatre Royal, with Khab-e-Hairat, which was a great success and fulfilled expectation, and the house was packed. There is not much plot in the Arabian Nights Story. The Sleeper Awakened,"—but good acting and singing, costly costumes, and beautiful scenery more than compensated for the absence of the former. Mr. M. N. Surveyor, the proprietor, appeared as an attendant, and kept the house in constant laughter and repeated encores were demanded and responded to. Miss Shooshila appeared as Abul-Hasan, the hero of the play, and her singing and acting evoked well-merited applause. Miss Mohini also sang well in her part. A pleasant feature of the play was the juvenile singing and dancing party of ten—ranging in age from 7 to 15—who did their part exceedingly well and can safely be said to be an ornament to the whole troupe. Those who went to the show were convinced that the play is not one of those ordinary Indian Companies that come here; but that is one of the best of the high-class Parsee Theatres of Bombay.

The Straits Times Singapore, 11-11-12.

LAST SATURDAY'S PERFORMANCE OF THE PARSEE DRAMATIC COMPANY.—Jam-e-Jamshed was a better success than the opening night's and is to be the forerunner of a series of similar performances to follow. The sceneries exhibited—especially the merry-go-round in which four girls were swinging—were admirable. The Kazi, holding his court and deciding a divorce case, was a unique illustration of an oriental institution. Mr. M. N. Surveyor, who appeared as Filfil, was at his best, and in the quarrel scene that ensued between Filfil and his two wives, kept the house in much laughter and was well applauded. To-night, Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra will be staged, when Miss Shooshilla will appear as Cleopatra.

There was quite a big attendance at the King Street Theatre on Saturday night, when the Parsee Ripon Theatrical Company of Bombay opened for a brief season. A comic play, "Bagh-e-Bedad," caused roars of merriment. The piece was splendidly mounted and as an insight into Indian life it was well worth seeing.

The Parsee Ripon Theatrical Company gave another excellent selection from their extensive repertoire in the King Street Theatre Hall last night when "Khab-e Hairat" or The Sleeper Awakened was presented. The piece was excellently carried through, and although owing to the fact that the language used is Hindustani few Europeans are able to appreciate the quips and jokes, with the aid of the hand-bills, foreigners are quite able to follow the story.

This Company, who have just arrived from Bombay, had a most successful opening night at the Alfred (late Curzon) Theatre, 91, Harrison Road, on Monday. "Khoon-ka-Khoon" was the play staged, and the acting was extremely good, Mr. Surveyor, particularly, being loudly applauded. Miss Shooshila was the heroine, and her songs were much appreciated by the audience.

Last Sunday evening at 4-30 p.m. the above Company staged "Baghe-e-Bedad" before an appreciative audience. Mr. M. N. Surveyor was very successful in the comic role of Paitukhan, the glutton and well deserved the applause he received. Miss Shooshila, as "Gulbadan," rendered her character ably, and her singing was highly appreciated. She was repeatedly encored. Miss Mohini as "Tara," Miss Moti Jan as "Chanda," and the other artistes also did well. The scenery was most appropriate and the costumes excellent. To-night the Company are staging a new drama entitled "Daria Dil,"

CALCUTTA AMUSEMENTS

The Parsee Ripon Theatrical Co.

The Parsee Ripon Theatrical Company of Bombay produced on Saturday last at the Curzon Theatre, "Bagla Bhagat," before a crowded house. The play is a combination of selected scenes from Shakespeare's master-pieces "Othello," "Merchant of Venice," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," skilfully adapted to form one plot. Throughout the play, Mr. Surveyor was seen in a part "Chowpat" (a scamp) capably suited to a display of his versatility. Such a character could easily be overtrained and made to appear absurd and impossible, but Mr. Surveyor did not once descend to the farcical or purely burlesque, while at the same time he kept the audience in a similar of good humour from beginning to end. Miss Shooshila was seen at her best as "Ashrafi." Her dancing and singing was much appreciated and she was repeatedly encored. The other parts were in capable hands and the music was capital. To-night (Wednesday), "Daria Dil," one of their best plays, will be staged.
